Programme Details

Who we Are ?

Fermedicius Labs is working to simplify nutrition and help people stay well. We are building daily fuel that is personalized to fulfil nutrition requirements, lifestyle expectations and taste preferences. We are leveraging technologies in Data Science and Internet of Things (IoT) to curate product experiences and engagement that help you further wellness and find a better you.

Program Structure:

Nature of engagement :

'Experiment Group' is a voluntary program where we induct early adopters to co-create with our design teams in spare time. Members in the 'Experiment Group' are exposed to our concepts and solution building process where they provide key inputs to improve our solutions.

Level and mode of Commitment :

The membership is a voluntary commitment that requires one contact session of 3 hours (online or in person) per two weeks. This accounts to 6 hours of commitment per month. We are flexible in accommodating the days of your availability and timing. We conduct these sessions in geographically convenient clusters and try to minimize travel for our members. Albeit, You are welcome to come down to our studio near IISc or nominate yourself to host such events.

Eligibility:

We look out for purpose driven individuals who are front runners in adopting disruptive solutions to solve most pressing problems. Our members are excited about the prospect of applying technology to engineer long term wellness and bring with them a representative opinion that helps us conceptualize and improve our solutions. We do not require any form of technical background or subject expertise and our members come from different walks of life.

Requirements:

We do not have any pre-requisites or requirements from prospective members. We however require the members to sign a Non-Disclosure Agreement at the time of induction as our solutions are proprietary in nature and we welcome our members to learn all aspects of our work.
